President's Letter

As this Newsletter reaches you, summer is in full swing. It's a great time for enjoying lazy afternoons and long evenings with family and friends. These months are far too short in New England and I hope you are able to make the most of them.

It was wonderful to see so many people in attendance at our May luncheon meeting, including some that hadn't attended for some time or maybe ever before. Much of the increase is certainly due to the wonderful generosity of the Direct Federal Credit Union, who made it possible for all of us to enjoy the luncheon at no cost. I want to thank them once more for celebrating the long-standing relationship between Polaroid employees and the credit union.

The May luncheon was also the annual business meeting of the PRA at which one third of our Board members were up for re-election. Dave Bayer, Al Clark, Bob Ganapathy, Maryann Hall and Eva Karger were re-elected, and I want to thank them for their past service and willingness to stand for re-election to another term.

At the first Board meeting after the election of Directors, on June 13th, the annual election of officers was held. I was elected for a second term, for which I'm humbly grateful. Edyie Johnson was re-elected as First Vice-President, and Arthur Aznavorian was re-elected as Second Vice-President. Bob Ruckstuhl was re-elected as Membership Chair (our by-laws permit non-Board members to serve as committee members and committee chairs). Bob Ganapathy's term as Secretary doesn't expire until 2018, and Doug Mitchell's term as Treasurer extends until 2019.

The PRA has enjoyed great success in the past year, both financially and operationally. The organization is strong going forward, but two problems continue to challenge our future success. One is our continually declining membership, the cause of which is primarily the passage of our members to the ultimate retirement association facing us all. Your board will be focusing hard in the coming year to increase recruitment of new and lapsed members, as well as retention of current members. Increased membership results primarily from one-to-one invitations and support from guess who? – You!

Our second challenge is recruiting new members for the Board of Directors. Our bylaws limit members to three, 3-year terms, after which they must leave the board. This is healthy because it results in new ideas and new energy for the board. But it means that we must continually enlist new board members, and to do that we need guess who? – YOU! to volunteer to help manage this wonderful organization. Please step forward to serve. CALL ME!

Hope to see you at the luncheon in October.

New Ownership at Polaroid Minnetonka

PLR IP Holdings, LLC, the owner of the Polaroid brand and related intellectual property, has been acquired by a group of investors led by the Smolokowski family. The new owners acquired 100% of the shares, effective May 5, 2017, from the Pohlad family, Gordon Brothers, Hilco Global and others.

The lead investor in the new ownership group, Wiaczeslaw (Slava) Smolokowski, is a Polish businessman and investor with holdings in the energy, biotech and real estate sectors. He is the cofounder of Mercuria Energy Group Limited, one of the world's largest commodity trading houses.

Mr. Smolokowski is also the majority shareholder of The Impossible Project, the company that purchased the last remaining Polaroid factory in 2008 and continues to manufacture instant film for legacy Polaroid cameras.

Polaroid is an iconic brand known the world over for pioneering and perfecting instant photography – both in the analog and digital eras. 2017 marks the 80th anniversary of the venerable company's founding. To-day, Polaroid products are sold in over 100,000 retail stores in more than 100 countries throughout the world.

"I'd like to thank the outgoing board members and shareholders for their outstanding leadership and support over the last several years," said Scott Hardy, President and CEO of Polaroid. "Under their stewardship, we achieved the tremendous growth and success that has led us to where we are today. We are also very pleased to welcome the new ownership group to the Polaroid family, and excited to begin writing the next chapter in the story of the Polaroid brand."

"We are very pleased that this strategic transaction unites the Polaroid brand with its heritage – a move that's exciting for both the buyer and the Twin Cities-based Polaroid team," said Jann Ozzello Wilcox, chief investment officer for the Pohlad organization.

Polaroid's headquarters and management team will remain in Minnesota. The company also maintains offices in New York City and Hong Kong, with plans for expansion into other international offices.

LabCentral Update

Remember LabCentral, the nonprofit that runs shared laboratory space for biotech startups and took up residence in the building that housed Dr. Land's lab on the corner of Main and Ames Streets?

It's back in the news because the 4-year-old company will more than double its capacity this summer to about 70,000 square feet. Robert Weisman of The Boston Globe reports, "With the new grant and about $4.5 million raised by LabCentral, the incubator is renovating about 42,000 square feet on the second floor of 700 Main St., where technology pioneer Thomas A. Watson received the first long-distance phone call in the 1800s and Polaroid founder Edwin Land kept an office a century later."

You'll find a video the PRA made 3 years ago on our website, www.polaroidretirees.org. The PRA plaque is mounted on the building, and our Fall 2014 video shows the plaque and takes a tour of LabCentral.

We expect new companies using the space will be inspired to continue the tradition of innovation and excellence.

Interest in Polaroid and Dr. Land Continues

With the July 28 closing of the Polaroid exhibit at Harvard Business School's Baker Library, there's yet another one opening. The Polaroid Project: At the Intersection of Art and Technology at the Amon Carter Museum of American Art in Fort Worth, Texas, is running from now to September 3.

The exhibition will open in Cambridge's MIT Museum in 2017 after showing in Austria, Germany, Singapore and Canada.

Barbara Hitchcock, PRA member and author of several books including this exhibit's companion of over 300 photographs and essays, is a co-curator of the exhibit. Barbara writes,

"A dynamic duo – colleagues, friends, visionaries – Dr. Land and Ansel Adams were inspirational figures of our time. Their legacies are sure. Nevertheless, we had hoped to underscore and showcase their idea of a Polaroid Collection that documented and explored an innovative technology and the world through artists' eyes. Plans to donate the Massachusetts-based Polaroid Collection to the Harvard Art Museums were foiled in 2008.

"Still hoping to insert instant photography into the public forum and enabled by a gift from the Land Fund, work began to develop an exhibition that would celebrate Polaroid instant technology and the explosion of experimental and creative photography that resulted. Six years later, 'The Polaroid Project: At the Intersection of Art and Technology' debuted at the Amon Carter Museum in Fort Worth, Texas, on June 2, 2017. The relationship between art and science is trumpeted and we see how humanizing vision and the touch of the artist can embrace a new technology and make it part of our cultural patrimony.

"The exhibition will tour internationally and the accompanying book will be published in several languages. I was proud to have been involved in creating and realizing this ambitious project."

The Polaroid Project displays a variety of image sizes and formats produced over the years and the rich legacy of technological and artistic experimentation that the company enabled prior to its obsolescence.

This exhibition has been organized by the Foundation for the Exhibition of Photography, Minneapolis/New York/Paris/Lausanne, in collaboration with the MIT Museum, Cambridge, Mass., and the West-Licht Museum for Photography, Vienna.

Coming Soon!

Look for the movie Polaroid to open in theaters on Friday, August 25. "A high school loner stumbles upon a vintage Polaroid camera tainted with a dark secret and soon discovers the camera's special power: those who have their picture taken are destined to have a tragic fate." Yes, it's haunted. And evil!

What's YOUR description of a Polaroid horror movie? Send it to us and terrify our readers!

Dave Kennedy Says Goodbye to the Vale

It is great to make contact with old friends, and I count many in the PRA, and to be able to provide an update on what is happening in Scotland, I am sad to report that the last link with Polaroid - the Vale of Leven site will close on Friday 31st March 2017. The Polaroid Camera and Film production finished in 2007. However the Eyewear business was sold on to Stylemark originally and then to the Italian Company, Safilo, who continue to own Polaroid Eyewear today. They have decided to close down the manufacture of "press polished" sunglass lenses and purchase lenses from the far east, resulting in the site's closure.

52 years of a Polaroid presence will end: from the early days of T20 manufacture films including T107D, T107C, T87, T88, Viva, T667, T108, T668, T611, T613, T669, PC3 and the many other Polacolor variants.

Camera manufacture from 1975 included Color Pack variants, EE100, SX70, 1000 and Button and then into third generation 600 series. Post 1992 we manufactured cameras including Image/Spectra, Pro Cam, Macro5, 203, 403, SPD350, SPD 360, Digital Miniportrait and Pocket film along with Sunglass lenses.

I am sure I have missed out many products. We made friends with colleagues from all over the Polaroid World; these are friendships which as we say in Scotland will "Aye endure" (last forever)!

While I find it a sad day, I have yet to meet a single employee who speaks ill of their experience. It provided us with employment, a great environment to work, good training and salary.

The end of an era, but we will always have our memories and our friends both near and far.

With all good wishes to the PRA

David J Kennedy Polaroid (UK) Ltd October 1973 - December 2004

Our Readers Write

Paul Stigas of Holbrook writes... Left Polaroid after 28 years in August 2003. The following week I started at Reebok International in Stoughton, MA - a nice place to work but no Polaroid. After 3 years the owner Paul Fireman sells to Reebok and moves facilities to Spartenberg, SC, so now 2 places have closed without missing a beat. The following week I start the Mass. Dept. of Correction and now have 9 1/2 years in...and our facility is privatizing. Boy, do I miss all our Polaroid family!

Doug Nieh writes...I joined the PRA in 1989 and please renew for 5 more years when I will be 91. Most of my coworkers no longer attend meetings. My job with Polaroid was very involved with Polarizer Division activities. When I retired after 33 years, I formed my own company, DEN Enterprises, which existed for 12 years. I miss the many activities I was involved in for 45 years.

Exploring What We Can Learn from Other Retiree Organizations

On June 26th, George Murray, Bob Ruckstuhl, and Eric Thorgerson met over lunch with several representatives of Raytheon, Textron and Hewlett Packard. The meeting stemmed from a Textron Retirees Association member telling PRA member Walter Byron of an excellent guide his group had put together called "Getting Your Affairs in Order." See below for details.

From Textron's generous offer to share their work with us, our conversation moved to what other things we could learn by sharing with each other and this led to our meeting.

The Polaroid Retirees Association is 50-100% larger than the other groups represented. The other groups also differ because they come from ongoing businesses and receive help – meeting space, refreshments, etc. - from their companies as well as help with retirement benefits and other Human Resources questions. For the most part, the only resources we can refer our membership to are Social Security, the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation and each other.

By comparison, the PRA has a strong structure and organization: a constitution and formal by-laws, staggered Board of Directors terms and term limits, financial management, etc. We can thank our founders and retired Board members for these.

There are a lot of opportunities to share among our groups, including ideas for possible retiree social activities, possible speakers, and other valuable information like the "Getting Your Affairs in Order" presentation. All of the groups represented share the problems associated with recruiting new members and the challenges of declining membership over time. We hope to explore these with them in the future.

George Murray

Getting Your Affairs in Order

The Textron Systems Retirees Association publication, Getting Your Affairs in Order, begins with the reminder that people spend most of their lives getting ready for careers, purchases, retirement, etc., but there is one large event that doesn't get enough preparation time. Members of the TSRA Surviving Spouse Group formed to offer lessons from their experiences with being "the one left behind," and their work is a gift to us all.

The authors point out that whether you're married or single, you have a wealth of knowledge and information valuable to those you will leave behind. Documenting and organizing that knowledge and information will help them deal with some of the stresses and challenges that will come with their loss. The 49 pages offer guidance and advice, forms and reference information, and words of encouragement and compassion to help you compile documents.

My husband and I found the advice and step-by-step guidance touching and valuable. While books and articles are available on the subject, we hadn't read anything so personal, so true to our own experiences with life after the deaths of our spouses. We urge you to access the document on our website, www.polaroidretirees.org or call me at 617-354-5237 for a copy, and begin the work that your survivors will appreciate long after you're gone.

We thank the authors for sharing their stories of dealing with these difficult issues. We thank the TSRA for sharing the publication with the PRA.
